A growlery is defined as a place to retreat, alone, when one is heartbroken. And why go there? Because the growlery, like art, is a cure for what ails the soul: a moment of profound melancholy, or contemplation can lead away the blues. Come and visit a fellow growler for paintings and fiber art.
The studio may be accessed from either Gills via a gate or the alley behind Gills. From the alley, a green building with a burgundy garage door is the right entrance; the studio is in the house behind the garage. Please come into the yard and to the back door. Tom signs will guide the way.
